CONSUMPTION, CONQUERED.

A P. E. ISLAND LADY RESTORED TO HEALTH.

Attacked With a Hoaching Cough. Loss of Appetite and General Feeling of Lassitude—Pink Pills Restored Her Health After Doctors Failed.

From the Charlotte Harbor, Fla.

Times without number have we read of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but generally the testimonials telling the tale had laid the scene in some of the other provinces. This time, however, the matter is brought directly home, and the testimony comes from a much respected and Christian woman, Mrs. Sarah Strickland, now residing in the suburbs of Charlotte Harbor, has been married many years and blessed with a large family and although never enjoying a robust constitution had, until a year ago, been in comparatively good health. About that time she began to feel "run down," her blood became thin and a general feeling of lassitude took possession of both her mind and body. Her family and friends viewed with alarm the gradual development of her illness, and when a cough—at first inconstant but afterwards almost constant, especially at night—set in, doctors were summoned, and everything that loving tender care and medical skill could do was resorted to in order to save the affectionate wife and mother, whose days appeared to be numbered. Her appetite was almost completely gone. Food was taken without relish, and Mrs. Strickland was unable to do even the ordinary lighter work of the household. She became greatly emaciated and in order to partake of even the most daily nourishment a stimulant had to be first administered. While this gloom hung over the house the mother sorrowfully thought of how she would have to see far away from her young family she was induced by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Though utterly discouraged and almost despaired with medicine, she yielded more in a friendly way than in a hopeful spirit. After using the pills for some short time a gleam of hope, a wish to get well had taken possession of her and the treatment was cheerfully commenced. It was no false feeling but a genuine effort, nature was making to re-assert itself, and before many boxes were used the family were joking their mother about her appetite, her disappearing cough, and the bright she had given them. The use of the Pink Pills was continued for some time longer and now Mrs. Strickland's elastic step and general, excellent health, would lead you to imagine that you were gazing upon a different woman, not one who had been snatched from the jaws of death. She was never in better health, and spirits, and no matter what others say she is firm in her belief that Pink Pills saved her life and restored her to her wonted health and strength.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure for all troubles resulting from poverty of blood or shattered nerves, and where given a fair trial they never fail in cases like that above related. Sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box, or five boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. See that the registered trade mark is on all packages.

Simplicity and Charity.

We commend the childlike simplicity of the kind-hearted man who so heartily "heweth all things," even of those whom the man of the world distrusts. "But," says Dr. Holmes, "the angels laugh, too, at the good he has done." Dr. Doherty, an old-fashioned clergyman of Dublin, was noted for his kindness to the poor, and for the simplicity which trusted them, although they could be guilty of no deception. Once a man was begging at the clergyman's carriage window. Having no change about him, he handed the beggar a guinea, saying: "Go, my poor man, get me change of that, and I will give you a shilling." He never saw the beggar's face again. One day he was coming home from school, and in the hall with his hands behind his back, as if hiding something, he insisted on knowing what it was, and he quietly brought out from behind his back a roasted pig of about a pound. He quickly took it from the spit in the kitchen, to give to a poor woman waiting at the door. "You're a Christian."

Household Receipts.

A housekeeper gives the assurance that flies dislike sassafras and will not settle on or even near it. Her plan is to brush over the windows every morning with a little oil of sassafras and provide a way of escape for the flies.

In preparing pineapple for the table after it has been pared, take a fork and pick off the substance from the core in the pieces, then you can eat it with as much pleasure as a berry and feel no more discomfort from its effects.

A rural authority claims that there is no drink in summer time more suitable for laboring men than buttermilk. It directly reinforces the wasting muscular tissue with its curd, and the sugar and salts it contains are nutritious. It forms an agreeable, cooling drink in cases of fever or inflammation.

Charles VIII. of France was nicknamed "The Affable." He always removed his hat in answer to a salutation, even if the greeting came from a peasant.

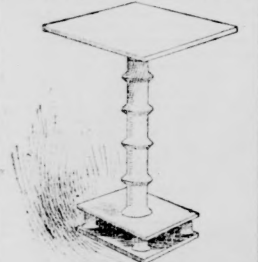

"Help! Help!" cried the man who was being robbed. "Calm yourself," said the highwayman, "I don't need any assistance."

WINTER PLANTS.

Autumn is the time to begin to think of winter flowers for the house. Report your small geraniums, fuchsias, heliotropes, etc., into clean pots, of size larger, and keep them well watered, and the buds pinched off. Root slips, plant seeds and put a few fuchsias now, or if you left last year's fuchsias in their pots, begin to water some of them now. Prune begonias and ferns now from a reliable florist, in order that they may be making good growth by winter. Most begonias need partial shade; putting them in the sun an hour or two a week is beneficial. They require an average temperature of 75 degrees to bring them to perfection. Water only when the soil is dry, then give enough to moisten the soil clear through. When out of bloom the plants should be given very little water, and a large part of the old growth should be pruned off. Transfer them from one pot to another as readily as the roots reach the inner surface of the pot, being careful not to disturb the roots when this is necessary. If you want the specimens, set the pot containing the begonia into a pot an inch larger, and fill between the two with coarse sand or loam, and pour the water between the two pots, never directly on the soil of the inner pot. Ferns need partial shade, although some, like the maidenhair, including the sword fern, will stand the direct sun on the plant all winter. Moisture is necessary to insure success, but do not have stagnant water at the roots. Water regularly, and thoroughly, sponge the leaves gently with tepid water when they become dusty; water with water warm to the touch, and occasionally stimulate with a little weak manure water. If you use the fancy glass pots of bowls, do not plant your fern directly in them, but set your common earthen pot into the fancy one on a block of wood, that you may not have the roots too damp and cause them to rot.

A Novel Stand. Get zing very large wooden spoons, such as are used in establishments where underwear is made, and are thrown aside when empty for kindling. These spoons are about five inches in height. Then with a saw, saw a wooden box of the size to hold them. Place one piece underneath and one above the four spoons, gluing them firmly and boring a hole in the center of the upper board through which the rod passes and rests on the lower board.

Then on this rest place the five remaining spoons one above another as if you were threading beads, gluing them fast as you go along. Saw out a stand top from the bottom of the spoon box, about half a yard square, or making it preferred, and fastening it upon the rod tail of spoons, your table will stand before you. You can round the corners if desired. Paint the whole cherry red or white with gilt trimmings. The top can be covered with plush if desirable. It will make a very pretty stand for a lamp or a lamp, and no one would think it was a home-made affair.

How to Keep Your Hair in Curl.

For this on your bangs if they positively refuse to stay curled. Wash them twice a week in salt water in which is a little alcohol and dry them carefully.

That is about the best and safest thing to keep them from going straight. The one who uses it, however, must remember that this will have a tendency to make the hair a little lighter. Hairdressers moisten the fringe with diluted hair oil before curling. Use a moderate amount of hair oil, and it will be very hot but it will loosen the life in the hair, and in a little while you will find that your hair will not stay in curl at all, and that you will have to let it "rest up." An iron that will not "size" is best. Wrap the hair around it and let it stay there till it does not feel the least moist, then when you release the hair you will find that the curls will be soft and fluffy.

MARKETING EGGS.

An English poultry breeder writes to the Country Gentleman as follows:

The proper presentation of all articles for sale is one of those points which, though often neglected, go far to give success. There can be no question that the eye is the inlet to the pocket as well as to the soul, and the great advantage which middlemen have over the regular producer of all kinds of produce, is that the former understand the importance of this question and take steps in that direction. At the same time it must be confessed that farmers pay less attention to this question than in their interests they should. The careless way in which produce is frequently marketed does much to destroy the value of all their precious labors. Twenty years ago Ireland supplied Great Britain with more eggs than all the rest of the world put together. But so careless were the people as to destroy the value of all their precious labors. Twenty years ago Ireland supplied Great Britain with more eggs than all the rest of the world put together. But so careless were the people as to destroy the value of all their precious labors. Twenty years ago Ireland supplied Great Britain with more eggs than all the rest of the world put together. But so careless were the people as to destroy the value of all their precious labors.

Haircloth is Not Popular. Haircloth is now hardly used at all for lining. There are several substitutes on the market, for which wonderful qualities are claimed. These are warranted not to crease, not to split and not to lose their stiffness. Strange if they have no faults, but if so it will soon be generally known, for their cheapness makes them widely employed.

not help assuming the excellence of their packing, together with the evenness of size throughout the boxes in fact, so complete is this system that when a retailer purchases a box of foreign eggs, he never thinks of opening it, but knows by the brand what will be the size of the eggs within. This has been a very peculiar factor in leading retailers to prefer foreign eggs, for then they know they are getting what they pay for. It must be borne in mind that the producer who sends all sizes to market in one box or basket, is doing himself a positive injury, since if there are a few big eggs they determine the standard, and, of course, others, even though of average size, look smaller. Moreover, in these days people prefer not to run any risk in this way, and hence it is, I have frequently been told by retailers, that the trouble when dealing with foreign eggs is minimized.

As a rule, abroad eggs are graded in three sizes, but in Denmark the system has been carried out to a greater extent, and Danish eggs are graded to six sizes, namely, from 12 to 17 pounds per long hundred (120). French, Italian, and other eggs are in three sizes, the first being about 17 to 18 pounds, the second, a little smaller, and the third, the smallest. This is expedient in finding an outlet for the smaller ones. But I think that this is more apparent than real. Of course, a less price would have to be taken for the small eggs, but the enhanced returns from the better specimens would more than make up for this. There is no question that in every trade a most important factor to success is confidence, and so long as foreign eggs are graded, while home produce is marketed in an ungraded way, so long will retailers prefer and sell at a higher price the foreign egg to the farmer. We have not yet arrived at that state of things where eggs are sold by weight, though the Danes really adopt this method to some extent, as already indicated at any rate, far as dealers are concerned. If fair prices are asked for eggs, the smaller can always be sold, because the rate is just as cheap to buy a little egg as a big one, provided we get more of them. Where this would be unattractive to producers or the packers, depends upon local organization. Still, there can be no doubt that if a producer has two baskets of eggs to take into market, it would be wise to sort these eggs into two different sizes, and in one or two places we have found this done. Any one can test the matter for himself by looking at a basket of eggs, all of which are of the same size, and compare it with another in which are a big and a little together. The difference is at once evident, and the system here advocated needs no further recommendation.

PACKING DAIRY BUTTER.

The Germantown "Telegraph" writes in the interest of farmers holding a few cows who, it says, practice packing butter. By this method it can be held in cold storage until the price is high, and in the fall, poor butter should not be held, as it will deteriorate more quickly than good butter. Butter that is to be held should be made from cream kept but a day or two and not from the week's milk. A tin should be drawn at three days even for the most skillful butter makers. Every time that cream is added to the old it should be "stirred evenly to prevent its settling in layers." And so on.

"First, dissolve a piece of saltpetre in water and mix this with the first cream put into the pot. Then by stirring up the whole mass each time additional cream is put in the saltpetre goes into every part of the cream, and helps to preserve it. The stone put for the cream naturally should be kept in a very cold place; in the box if one keeps ice, or in a cold cellar. The night before churning take it out and stand it in a gradually warm room. In the morning before churning, a little of the cream down to 20 degrees or 30 degrees. If handled in this way the butter ought to come in summer in five to ten minutes. When the butter is in the churn, it is best to keep it in a cold place. Wash the butter in the churn until the cold water runs clear. Wipe the salt carefully into the butter and let it stand until the next day.

"Early in the forenoon of the following day, when the butter is in the churn, until the salt is thoroughly dissolved, and every drop of the buttermilk is out of it. A little buttermilk left in the butter will be sufficient to taint the whole pot full and eventually spoil it.

"A stone which is the best thing to pack the butter in, and each churning should be packed firmly into the pot. Dissolve as much salt as possible in water and into this stir one-half ounce of saltpetre to each gallon of butter. Boil this mixture until everything is dissolved, strain it through a cloth, let it stand for a few hours, then skim off the skum on top, and pour off the liquid carefully, leaving the sediment in the bottom of the pot. The brine with the salt in it and is ready to pour over the butter in the churn. Each time a new quantity of butter is to be packed, pour off the brine and put the butter down hard and then pour brine over again. In this way butter can be kept sweet and clean for a long time.

The above system is one prevailing in Pennsylvania and of interest, although we suspect that our dairymen will not subscribe to all the details, including crocks and saltpetre.

How to Bake Tomatoes.

To bake tomatoes, cut off a small piece of the fruit at the stem end and put in a bit of butter, a pinch of sugar and a pinch of salt. Put a little powdered cracker or bread crumbs over them, and, if the flavor is liked add a few bits of onion. Bake an hour and have the top brown.

A TELEPHONE IN THE STOMACH.

Peculiar Phenomena of Human Nature.

In an age when that subtle force electricity is presenting wonders to the world almost daily, and the Wizard of Menlo Park has become the hero of the hour, there seems to be nothing that we may not expect in this direction. But it was not left to Edison to establish a telephone in the stomach of human beings. The Great Maker of man in the economy of human nature provided such an instrument centuries ago. It is a fact that within the stomach of every man and woman there is a little instrument that telephones to the nerve centres in the brain as quickly as any food reaches that part. When for any reason this communication is stopped the food is undigested and physical troubles ensue. With nerve promptly sent from stomach to nerve centres, these supply the necessary juices that aid digestion, and nature successfully does her part, good health is enjoyed and man is able to perform with energy and pleasure his everyday duties. It will happen at times that these nerve centres become deranged and lose their force; then it is that a remedy must be applied; just as the skill of the electrician is necessary when something goes wrong with the office telephone, South American Nerve is the electrician so far as the human body is concerned. It is a medicine unique and exceptional in this particular that it works directly upon the nerve centres, and when these are out of order it quickly places them in proper repair and completeness. Nearly all diseases, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, sick headache and disorders of the digestive tract, such as trouble at the nerve centres. You can just as readily count on South American Nerve effecting a proper cure in all such cases as you can depend upon the electrician of the Bell Telephone Co., removing any derangement that has taken place in your telephone.

New Method of Extracting Gold.

The new method of extracting gold from ore, an improvement on the cyanide process in thoroughness and saving of time, was discovered by Mr. H. L. Sullivan. He has obtained the homestead of cyanogen, which, when added to the weak cyanide solution now in use, produces the compound now obtained slowly by the addition of oxygen. The compound is then treated with zinc fumes, instead of zinc shavings, and the gold falls at once in a thick powder. This process does in forty-eight hours what the old method previously a fortnight. By adding soap and lime in the slime from the ore, which previously went to waste, though it forms thirty-five per cent. of the mass, it can be made to yield gold in the same way as the other parts of ore are subjected to chemical action.

New Zealand's Plan.

Sydney, New South Wales, has hit upon a practical method of dealing with its unemployed. It furnishes a railway pass and a miner's right of credit to each suitable applicant to enable him to proceed to one of the gold fields of the colony, where he may have a chance of earning a living by "fossicking" for the precious metal. The number of passes issued in 1894 was 9,572, and since the inauguration of the scheme the quantity of gold obtained in the colony has risen from 179,288 ounces in 1890, to 321,757 ounces in 1894.

In Spring and Fall.

GENTS.—I have taken Burdock Blood Bitters every spring and fall as a blood purifier for several years and find it does great good, building up my system, making me feel like a new man. My wife also has taken it for nervous debility and weakness, receiving great benefit when doctors' medicine seemed to do no good.

The local firemen are already making arrangements for their annual to be held New Year's night. A string band from Winnipeg is expected to have charge of the musical part of the programme and it is thought that the kind ever undertaken by the firemen before.

Mr. Wm. Middleton is still lying around on crutches. It was ascertained that in the accident he received when he slipped at the church, he broke some of the small bones near the ankle and tore some muscles of the leg. The moral of course is that it is unsafe to go to church when there is ice on the ground.

Mr. Alfred Birch, of Roma,

There is likely to be a trade in rabbits between Manitoba and other provinces in the east. The woods in this country are alive with rabbits, and the price is so high that it is worth the farmer's while to consider the possibility of capturing the rabbits for breeds and others will give some advice on capturing the rabbits for the market.

A cripple named Bissett, well known to many of our readers as an invalid, has been getting himself into trouble.
Some months ago a buggy appeared from the premises of J. J.
Williamson at Roseland, and the other day it appeared in the city with the cripple as an occupant. He suddenly left on hearing that the law was on his tracks, but was overtaken at Kenora, and is now in the hands of justice in commiseration.

Dr. Fleming discovered the cause of the appearance of diphtheria in the Methuen section, which occasioned the death of three or four people, after the first investigation. The first case reported was one of the Conn Bros. but then the hired man and the nurse caught the disease, but both are recovering. Looking around the Ducts discovered an old well into which the germs of disease from barn yard an house had found their way for years.
In this the Conn Bros. used to keep their milk, letting the pail up and down by a rope as required.

The editor of every local paper is under obligation to all who contribute to its items of news—doubtless so to those who bring them in early. As the time for going to press draws near time and space become more valuable, greater condensation and in some cases omission, of valuable contributions become necessary. There is leisure and room enough for contributions that come in early, and in the necessary sifting out of what must be omitted or cut down it is but just to discriminate against such as might have been (but were not) sent in early. His dat qui cito

Letters patent being applied for incorporate N. Boyd, W. J. Boyd, Hug-Boyd, Herbert F. Lyons and Walter W. R. land, of Carberry, a body politic under the name of The Boyd Lanching Company, Limited. The purpose is to conduct a ranching business, buying, selling and raising live stock and acquiring lands to be used for ranching purposes. The operations of the company are to be carried on in the Municipality of South Cypress and the capital stock will be $25,000 divided into 2, 000 shares of $25 each. The first five of the above mentioned applicants will be the first directors of the company.

With a great deal of enterprise ever active in letting a telegraphic Saturday Night, the Brandon Sun exposes all the circumstances connected with the marriage of a certain young English lady, recently in Montreal, who came across the water for that purpose.
We fancy the general public will vote this exposure cruelly pure and simple.
It is true that the husband endeavored to put on airs in the city at the expense of some of our merchants, but outside of this the history of the case is of no concern to the public. He, of course, deceived his young, respectable and accomplished wife, but when she was willing to forgive him, to send him on in a more humble walk and do the best she could to build up a satisfactory future, it is simply cruel to have her feelings unnecessarily lacerated by this newspaper exposure.
The Mail was in full possession of all the facts surrounding the matter week-ago, but as we saw no end could be necessary, having of the feelings of the young lady already strained enough, we deemed it wiser to let the matter quietly drop out of sight, even at the expense of a sensational new item.
